

Polaris

265 Peachtree St NE
Atlanta, GA 30303

ACTIVE DISCUSSIONS / NEWEST POSTS

WEEK IN REVIEWS

Two Stars for Endive Publik House: Great Catering Company, but the Restaurant Needs Work

Endive Publik House. [Photo: Yelp]

Behind a paywall, Jenny Turknnett of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution gives Endive Publik House two out of five stars. She says it still needs work to make the jump from catering to full-time restaurant:

By catering standards, Endive Publik House wins best in show. If it can retool for restaurant service, where food and service are the main attraction and not ancillary components to an event experience, it can rank higher by restaurant standards.

The elsewhere and the blogs. >>

COMMENTS

4:08 PM, JUL. 25 2014

Tweet 0

Like 0

NEED to KNOW

2 COMMENTS
JUN 10, 2014

Look Inside Revolving Restaurant Polaris, Now Reopened Atop the Hyatt Regency

5 COMMENTS
MAR 13, 2014

Atlanta's Colossal 2014 Restaurant Openings Guide

LISTICLES It's time to reassess Atlanta's best new restaurants. Thrillist posts a rundown of 11, including the newly reopened Polaris and bowling-restaurant fusion The Painted Pin. See

COMMENTS

Tweet 1

Like 2

more of the city's hot new restaurants here.
[Thrillist]

EATER INSIDE

Look Inside Revolving Restaurant Polaris, Now Reopened Atop the Hyatt Regency

11 IMAGES ▶

POLARIS
265 Peachtree St NE,
Atlanta

2 COMMENTS

12:47 PM, JUN. 10 2014

Tweet 17

Like 486

Polaris. All photos: [Matthew Wong]

Polaris, the UFO-like revolving restaurant atop Downtown's Hyatt Regency hotel, reopens today. More than 20 floors above the lobby, the restaurant rotates every 45 minutes and serves a menu— which will also rotate, albeit every two weeks— from the hotel's executive chef, Martin Pfefferkorn.

First opened in 1967 and closed since 2004, Polaris has been totally gutted and redesigned by The Johnson Studio and utilizes rooftop space from the Hyatt Regency to grow herbs and vegetables, including what may be the only actual peach tree on Peachtree Street. In addition to homegrown produce, look for dishes to incorporate offerings from The Spotted Trotter and H&F Bread Co.

To the photos. >>

COMING ATTRACTIONS

